DUTY TO DISCLOSE ALL MATERIAL FACTS

You have a duty to disclose all material facts to insurers. Whenever you seek new insurance or to renew or amend existing insurance this duty requires notification to insurers of any information which might influence their decision whether or not to accept the proposed risk, what premium to charge and whether any special terms or conditions apply. This duty rests entirely with an insured - insurers are under no duty to make enquiries of them.

Examples of matters that may be regarded as material are:

- Details of all past claims and circumstances, irrespective of whether or not they were insured
- Previous cover having been cancelled or declined by insurers
- Refusal of membership or disciplinary action taken by a Professional Body

Failure to disclose material facts may result in the policy being avoided or claims not being paid. If you are unsure about whether something would be considered material, it is recommended that you notify insurers.

IMPORTANT: Notice Concerning Disclosure

You must be aware of your duty of disclosure and the very severe consequences of breaching this duty.

You must disclose to insurers any fact or circumstance which is known to you (or which ought to be known to you in the ordinary course of your business) and which is material to the risk. A fact or circumstance is material if it would influence the judgement of a prudent insurer in calculating the premium or determining whether the Insurer would accept the risk. If there is any doubt as to whether information is material it must be disclosed to insurers.

The obligation applies before the contract of insurance is concluded, during the contract period, at renewal, and on extension or amendment of the contract or the risk. In addition, the duty also applies to the claims process and to other situations where you are required to provide information to insurers.

Should you not act with the utmost good faith or should you fail to disclose any material fact or circumstance to insurers, insurers may avoid the contract of insurance thereby enabling them not to pay any outstanding claims and to require repayment of all claims previously paid.

Please contact us immediately for assistance if you are unsure whether information may be material or you have not disclosed full and accurate information.

IMPORTANT: Claims Procedure

You must notify Underwriters immediately (via Freisenbruch Insurance Services Limited) of:-

- a) any claim made against you
- b) the intention of any person to make a claim against you
- c) any circumstance which you may feel would give rise to a claim

Your renewal premium will not be affected by notifications which do not lead to a claim.

In the event that you have any doubts regarding a notification issue or a query relating to any other aspect of your cover or general professional activities, please contact us.

Important: you should not admit liability without permission from your insurers (via Freisenbruch Insurance Services Limited).
