Importance: High

Dear Debbie,

Further to my email below, we have heard nothing further regarding the meeting that you proposed for the purpose of discussing the outstanding issues that affect the Land Title Registration legislation. Given that the Land Title Registrar (Recording of Documents) Act 2017 appears to have been approved by Parliament on the 3rd February, 2017 (as recorded in yesterday's Royal Gazette) and given that the Minister has promised to "tenaciously" pursue the passing of the Amendment Act following the budget period, I would appreciate your confirming (by return), whether we can expect any further consultation or dialogue?

Regards,

Scott

LAND TITLE REGISTRATION AMENDMENT BILL 2017

EXPLANATORY MEMORANDUM

This Bill would amend the Land Title Registration Act 2011 (“the Act”) to provide for surveyed rather than indicative boundaries, to provide for first registration with certified rather than absolute title, to provide for registration of an estate with absolute title where there has been no successful legal challenge for a period of at least six years after first registration, to remove the Government indemnity against loss of title, to provide for a register of judgments that affect land, to establish a Land Title Registration Tribunal to adjudicate objections to decisions of the Land Title Registrar, to provide for the publication of rules by deposit for public inspection, and for related matters. Clauses 2 to 37 and 39 amend the Act, and clause 38 amends Schedule 9 to add consequential amendments to other Acts.

Clause 1 is self-explanatory.

Clause 2 amends section 2 by repealing paragraph (e) as the payment of indemnities will not be provided for under the Act.

Clause 3 amends section 3 by amending certain definitions and inserting new definitions.

Clause 4 inserts section 3A which requires an application for registration of an estate to be lodged on behalf of the applicant by an attorney. The attorney is to provide the Land Title Registrar (“the registrar”) with a certificate of title, certifying that the title is good and marketable subject to certain assumptions, reservations, and interests that are excepted from the effect of first registration. The application must also be accompanied by a survey report and a survey plan of the estate.

Clause 5 amends section 4(1) to reflect that the Land Title Registry Office (“LTRO”) is not a Government Department, but rather an Office within a Government Department.

Clause 6 amends the heading of Part 3 by removing “AND INDEMNITY” because the provisions dealing with the establishment of an indemnity fund, the payment of indemnities, and reinsurance arrangements are being repealed. (See clause 8.)

Clause 7 amends section 9 by repealing paragraph (b) which would require the Minister of Finance, when prescribing fees in respect of the performance of functions under the Act, to include in the calculation the amount of income that he considers reasonable to establish and maintain an Indemnity Fund.

Clause 8 repeals section 10 (which provides for an Indemnity Fund), section 11 (which provides for the payment of indemnities) and section 12 (which provides for insuring the liability of the registrar to pay indemnities under the Act).

Clause 9 amends section 15(4)(b) by deleting the words “subject to section 17(2)” because section 17(2) of the Act is repealed and replaced, and the new section does not refer to “indicative boundary”. The boundary of a registered estate is to be a surveyed boundary. (See clause 10.)

LAND TITLE REGISTRATION AMENDMENT BILL 2017

Clause 10 repeals and replaces section 17 to provide for surveyed boundaries rather than indicative boundaries. The surveyed boundary of an estate is the exact boundary of the estate identified in a survey report and shown on a survey plan prepared by a land surveyor.

Clause 11 amends section 18(1) to add a reference to another register, the judgment register. (See clauses 13 and 39.)

Clause 12 amends section 19(2)(b)(v) by including registration of an estate with “certified title”. (See clause 15.)

Clause 13 inserts section 20A which provides for the registrar to keep a judgment register in which judgments that affect land are to be registered.

Clause 14 amends section 24(1) by splitting certain paragraphs into subparagraphs, and certain subparagraphs into clauses, so that each such subparagraph or clause is capable of being a “trigger” for compulsory registration. In this regard, see clause 36(c) which amends paragraph 2(d)(ii) of Schedule 3 to the Act.

Clause 15 amends section 28 to provide for an owner of an estate to be registered with certified title, rather than absolute title, on first registration. Section 28(2) is repealed and replaced to provide that a person may be registered with certified title if the registrar has been provided with a certificate of title, survey report, survey plan and such other information as may be required by rules, and is of the opinion that the registration of the person with certified title would be appropriate.

Clause 16 amends section 29 (Effect of first registration - freehold estates) to reflect that a freehold estate will not be registered with absolute title on first registration. (On first registration a freehold estate is to be registered with either certified title or provisional title.)

Clause 17 amends section 30 (Effect of registration - leasehold estates) to reflect, similarly, that a leasehold estate will not be registered with absolute title on first registration. (On first registration a leasehold estate is to be registered with either certified title or provisional title.)

Clause 18 inserts section 32A which provides that the registrar must give notice of an application for first registration by publishing notice thereof in the Official Gazette and inviting anyone who has an interest in the estate and wishes to object to the application to do so within 30 days after such publication.

Clause 19 amends section 58(3)(c) to add a reference to the Land Title Registration Tribunal (“the Tribunal”) to be established under the new section 92A. (See clause 26.)

Clause 20 inserts section 78A which provides that, after the expiration of six years from the date of first registration of an estate, any title that a claimant may have to the registered estate shall, in certain circumstances, be extinguished.

Clause 21 amends section 80(1) to change “indicative boundary” to “surveyed boundary”. (As already stated, all boundaries will be surveyed, not indicative.)

Clause 22 amends section 81 (Power to upgrade title) to include the upgrading of title (from provisional title or certified title) to absolute title. Under the new subsection (4A), where the title to a registered estate has been entered in the register for a period of at least six years from the date of first registration of the estate (whether as certified or provisional), the registrar may enter it as absolute upon being satisfied that the title of any claimant, as defined in section 78A, has been extinguished in accordance with that section. (See clause 20.)

Clause 23 amends section 84 (Inspection of registers etc.) to include a reference to the judgment register.

Clause 24, similarly, amends section 85 (Official copies of registers etc.) to include a reference to the judgment register.

Clause 25 amends section 92 to reflect that the adjudication of objections will now be dealt with by the Tribunal, established under the new section 92A (see clause 26), and that there will not be an entitlement to indemnity under the Act.

Clause 26 inserts sections 92A (which establishes the Land Title Tribunal), 92B (which sets out the duties of the Chairman and Deputy Chairman) and 92C (which provides that a member of the Tribunal must disclose any interest he has in a matter before the Tribunal).

Clause 27 amends section 93 (Adjudication) in consequence of the Tribunal being made responsible for the adjudication of objections.

Clause 28 amends section 94 (Procedure) to set out in more detail the procedure to be followed by the Tribunal.

Clause 29 amends section 95 (Reference of objections to court) to reflect that the Tribunal may also refer a matter to the court. Subsection (2) is repealed because it requires automatic reference of a matter to the court if indemnity is payable, and the provisions requiring payment of indemnity are being repealed.

Clause 30 amends section 96 (Appeals) to provide that a person may, in accordance with rules of court (currently Order 55 of the Rules of the Supreme Court 1985), appeal to the Supreme Court against a decision of the Tribunal.

Clause 31 amends section 97 (Enforcement of orders, etc.) to reflect that it is the Tribunal's decisions that would be enforceable as orders of the Supreme Court.

Clause 32 amends section 108(4) to reduce the period during which an adverse possessor may apply for alteration of the register from ten to six years after the estate in land in question was first registered.

Clause 33 amends section 117 (Reduction in threshold term) as the "threshold term" for the registration of an estate in land is increased from five years to 21 years. (See clause 3(e).)

Clause 34 inserts a new subsection (1A) into section 123 so that rules made under the Act do not have to be published in the Gazette. The rules are to be published by deposit for public inspection at the Land Title Registry Office and shall come into effect by notice published in the Official Gazette.

Clause 35 repeals Schedule 1 (Indemnities).

LAND TITLE REGISTRATION AMENDMENT BILL 2017

Clause 36 amends Schedule 3 (First registration - ancillary matters). Clause 36(a) provides for the phased introduction of voluntary registration to be triggered (by category) by notice published in the Official Gazette. The notice is subject to parliamentary scrutiny by the negative resolution procedure. Similarly, clause 36(b) and (c) provides for the phased introduction of compulsory registration to be triggered (by category) by notice published in the Official Gazette. The notice is also subject to parliamentary scrutiny by the negative resolution procedure. Clause 36(d) corrects an incorrect reference to section 94 - the correct reference is to section 95. Clause 36(e) repeals paragraph 15 (Certificates of legal effect) of Schedule 3 as a certificate of legal effect has been replaced by a certificate of title. (See clause 4.)

Clause 37 amends Schedule 6 (Alteration of the Register) in paragraph 5(b) to include altering the register for the purpose of bringing the register up to date if a title is upgraded under section 81.

Clause 38 amends Schedule 9 to add consequential amendments to other Acts.

Clause 39 inserts Schedule 10 (Assumptions and Reservations). This lists the assumptions and reservations upon which a certificate of title may be based. It also inserts Schedule 11 (Registration of Judgments). This provides that no judgment obtained after the coming into operation of the Act shall affect land unless and until the judgment is registered by the registrar.

Clause 40 is self-explanatory.
